

Architecture

Check other Subject Headings for architecture links (such as Designers, Electronic Journals, Images, Libraries, Professional Organizations, and Maps)

ADAM: Art, Design, Architecture & Media Information Gateway

<http://adam.ac.uk/>

Searchable catalog of Internet resources selected by librarians.

APRP: Architectural Practice Research Project

<http://archprac.cua.edu/>

Guidelines for overcoming obstacles to responsive architectural practice.

Architecture and Building Web Resources

<http://library.nevada.edu/arch/rsrce/webrsrce/contents.html>

Sponsored by the University of Nevada

Art and Humanities on the World Wide Web (Prentice Hall Publishing)

<http://vig.prenhall.com/catalog/academic/discipline/1,4094,1264,00.html>

Art History Textbooks

Cyberbia: Internet Resources for the Built Environment

<http://www.cyberbia.org/>

Cyberbia, the Internet's oldest portal site for urban planners and others interested in cities and the built environment, contains a selective directory of Internet resources relevant to planning and urbanism.

RUDI: Resource for Urban Design Information

<http://www.rudi.net/>

Commissions, researches and creates materials, and also re-publishes documents contributed by professional and government bodies, practitioners, academics and community organizations.

Vernacular Architects Forum Bibliography

<http://departments.umw.edu/hipr/www/vafbib.htm>

Vernacular architecture in North America (including the United States, Canada, Mexico, and the West Indies).

Index/Database (BAC community only)

Avery Index to Architectural Periodicals (login from the Library's homepage)

<http://www.the-bac.edu/index.cfm?pageid=31>

Provides citations to articles in approximately 400 current and over 1000 retrospective architectural and related periodicals with primary emphasis on architectural design and history but coverage as well of archaeology, landscape architecture, interior design, furniture and decorative arts, garden history, historic preservation, city planning, urban design, and environmental studies.