Arick Dyrdal: A Journey from Service to Success

Arick Dyrdal, a devoted husband to Nancy Villa and proud father of two teenagers, Kaden (13) and Rylee (14), is set to welcome a new addition to the family, Eva. Born to a Cuban immigrant father and a first-generation Cuban American mother, Arick's heritage has deeply influenced his journey.

Arick's dedication to serving his country led him to the United States Coast Guard, where he served with distinction for eight years. During this time, he honed his skills as an electronics technician 2nd class and a boatswain's mate 3rd class, specializing in maritime law enforcement, communications repair, and search and rescue operations.

After leaving the military, Arick discovered his passion for craftsmanship as a carpenter. This love for creating with his own hands fueled his decision to pursue architecture. He graduated from the Boston Architectural College in 2018, where he was not only a diligent student but also an active participant in student government and the alumni council.

Arick's entrepreneurial spirit led him to establish Design Build Boston Construction while still in school, all while gaining experience with established construction companies and architecture firms. Upon receiving his architecture license, he founded Design Build Architects. Despite the challenges of launching a business, Arick fearlessly charted his own path just three months before the onset of the global pandemic.

Arick Dyrdal's inspiring journey, from military service to becoming a successful architect and business owner, reflects his resilience and adaptability in the face of adversity. His story serves as an inspiration to all, demonstrating that determination and dedication can overcome any obstacle, even during the most uncertain times.
